

Silverwoods of Lancashire

Sale Report

Rediscovery Sale, Wednesday 14th August 2019

Normally we would put this in a catalogue sale, but entered in the weekly sale at the vendor's request was this Rolex Oyster Speedking; even without papers it made £580. We had more novelty alarm clocks, with a boxed Woody Woodpecker clock making £85, £48 for Mickey Mouse and another and £65 for a birdcage automata clock. Militaria is always good to sell, and a small selection this week had a George V officer's sword in 'as found' condition and sans scabbard making £70 and a WWI bayonet with a sheath knife realising £80. We've recently had the anniversary of the moon landing, so it was no surprise that two lots consisting of silver commemorative medals made £190 between them. Furniture is good value for those wanting quality and unusual, we had an Arts & Crafts bureau bookcase at £65 and a nice inlaid sewing worktable for £60. Lastly, there are always lots to make you smile: large scale figures of Jake and Elwood Blues sold to a local retired school teacher for £75.
